

Martijn Winkler (1978) is a writer, director and producer, working at the intersection of online, cross media and linear audiovisual storytelling since 2003. International and award winning campaigns & productions - including two Rose d'Ors, an Emmy, and a Webby -, often with an innovative DNA and aiming directly for societal impact. His groundbreaking drama series SWIPE (2018) focused on the influence of mobile phones on our daily lives and continues to drive critical conversations about the true ownership of our devices. His last series Heat, a climate change thriller, was the most awarded short form drama series of 2021 (worldwide), and sparked national debate about our lack of preparedness for the coming years. He is currently working on a feature film, Headliner, coming out in 2026.

Martijn is former chairman and current board member of the Dutch Directors Guild, board member of FERA (European Screen Directors), member of EFA and on the Advisory Board of the VU University Amsterdam, department of Arts and Cultural Sciences. He is also co-founder and creative director of production company VERTOV and digital creative consultant at its sister company, Spice PR in Amsterdam.
